Myth Buster 1 – Myth: Clients Don't Care About Participant Engagement. Busted: Actually, Many Of Them Do

When we talk to agency leaders about why they do not want to invest in participant engagement, the overwhelming reason given is that end clients just don't care. As part of our preparations for the SampleCon panel we ran last week on 'Agency and End Client Perceptions on Participant Engagement, we decided to investigate and interviewed 10 end clients about this topic. ROI of Insights Workshops – Two New Workshops Available for 2019

One thing that became very clear during our discussions with end clients was that they have a high degree of trust in the agencies they work with. This trust is of course a very good thing.

What surprised us was that this trust extended to trust that the agencies are taking care of participant engagement. This trust is not such a good thing. Read more

Myth Buster 3 – Myth: End Clients Can't Do Anything About Participant Engagement. Busted: Yes They Can, With Our Help

Whilst the agencies have to take practical day-to-day responsibility for participant engagement, the end clients need to take overall responsibility. At the end of the day, it is their customers and potential customers being surveyed. It is their data and their insights, which are either suffering or benefiting. But end clients need help in taking this responsibility, and GRBN is providing that help. Read more
